
There is a clear, nearly perfect linear relationship between the errors of the two estimators. Under these simulations, the errors of the plug-in estimator behaves approximately like a shifted and scaled version of the errors of the logit estimator.